Dear Mr Earl,

Thank you for your email.

Please note that we are not in a position to adjudicate unsecured creditor claims and will only do so should a dividend to unsecured creditors arise. Nevertheless, I attach a proof of debt form for your completion in the event that sufficient asset realisations are made.

Despite this, I can confirm that you are already registered on our system, at the address 115b Drysdale Street, Drysdale Street, London N1 6ND and statutory correspondence was sent to that address by this firm at the commencement of the liquidation (27 January 2020).

Please confirm if we do not hold the correct correspondence address for you and I will update our records accordingly.

Regards,
Adam

Mr Rones,

I've not heard from you in response to both emails. Please acknowledge you are investigating the matter. I look forward to a reply by close of business on Mon 12th Oct 2020.

Kind regards,
Jase.

Hi again Mr Rones,

When I spoke to you at the end of Sept, you acknowledged that I had a claim for debt but the directors at the time rejected it (from your relocation/memory), hence why I had no further communication from you. You stated if the claim was genuinely valid, it was down to your company rather than the previous directors to have the final say. If this was the case you acknowledged that you could send me proof of debt forms.

I noted that I found the rejection from Mrs Busfield interesting because the company had an obligation to pay me as work had been done, at the request of Mrs Busfield. Mrs Busfield later engaged solicitors at ORJ LLP in attempt to leverage this pending payment in exchange for details relating to the sister company JET Group Limited (Not JET Group Services Limited). ORJ claimed Mrs Busfield was the owner of this company. ORJ failed to provide any evidence to back up the claim and thus it became clear this was an act of extortion by Mrs Busfield and ORJ. The fact ORJ are now being investigated by two regulators and its managing partner, Mr Patrick Tedstone is very likely to face disciplinary action in its self highlights the falsity of Mrs Busfield's claim.

I have not been back home in the last 2 weeks to go through my phone recordings on my PC, but I know in a recorded call with Mrs Busfield she acknowledges that at the very least disbursement costs should be paid. I will be back home hopefully next week, and should be able to locate it if required.

In the absence of the call I have attached a letter from ORJ where they agree payment is due, provided I hand over certain details relating to The JET Group Limited (not the JET Group Services Limited). However because ORJ failed to provide evidence of Mrs Busfield's ownership of The JET Group Limited, so I believe dispute was void and payment in full was due to me.

I would be grateful if you can acknowledge this email and ideally send proof of debt forms.

Kind regards,
Jase.

Mr Rones,

You are well aware I am a shareholder and creditor of the The Jet Group Services Ltd (JETGS). We had a call last Nov/Dec regarding this and I believe my phone records illustrate this, along with an email.

I am writing to assert why I have no been contacted since Dec 2019 regarding the above company. You have my email and phone number so I confused why no communication was made.

I am concerned that is an ulterior agenda at play from those instructing you.

Please contact me forthwith explaining the situation.

Regards,
Jase.
